COUNTY NEWS.

Local Items of general interest to a majority of our readers, especially distant friends.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—Mail your items early so they will reach our office not later than Tuesday morning—Monday if possible. News received after that will not be published unless of unusual importance. Advertise no one's business, and write on one side of the paper only.

MURPHY FORK.

Gordon Henry and three children, of Grassy, are reported to be sick.

Ben Murphy left Sunday for West Liberty to be at county court Monday.

Miss Callie Rose, of Ezel, who has been sick for a week, is improving at this writing.

Ben Murphy reports that cattle went off o. k. at the Mt. Sterling market, but sheep went off Republican.

Miss Mary Murphy, who has been on the sick list for a week or more, has been dismissed by Dr. Asa Nickell, of Ezel.

Miss Pearly Peters, the beautiful, who is staying with Mrs. Nannie Murphy, was a guest of Miss Jane Taulbee Sunday.

Last week Silas Nester sold his crop to Henry Murphy and left for Ironton, Ohio, where he will take charge of a good farm, the gift of his mother.

J. D. Anderson, of Ezel, is building a fine six-room cottage, which, for beauty, will surprise the natives. Jim Nickell is the architect and finisher on the job.

Sherman Barker, of Stillwater, is at present at the home of his first love, Mort Cecil. Mort is highly pleased at securing such a number one busy hand.

Bob Patterson, of Ezel, was tried Saturday for letting his stock run at large. It resulted in a hung jury, two being for acquittal, three for conviction and one refused to talk.

Miss Esther Hurst, who has been attending the Elamville college, spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her mother, on Stillwater. She was accompanied by Mrs. Nannie Murphy.

The writer has been informed that Milt Lykins, the old reliable cattle trader, who moved to the blue grass some time ago, has a branch gas office at Ticktown as well as in the cattle yards.

The scholars of Elamville Academy had a gala time last week. Miss Mollie Coldiron, former instructor, having left and went to West Liberty, gave the pupils a chance to study the art of bean picking and other out-door sports. Prof. Kelly Wheeler, a master of teachers, rang the school bell, which brought them all in, and the professor directed them to other studies.

TULIP.

Night On Bald Mountain.

On a lonely night Alex Benton, of Fort Edward, N. Y., climbed Bald Mountain to the home of a neighbor, tortured by asthma, bent on curing him with Dr. King's New Discovery, that had cured himself of asthma. This wonderful medicine soon relieved and quickly cured his neighbor. Later it cured his son's wife of a severe lung trouble. Millions believe it's the greatest throat and lung cure on earth. Coughs, colds, croup, hemorrhages and sore lungs are surely by it. Best for hay fever, grip and whooping cough. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all dealers.

CAMPTON.

Grace Smith, who has been at Jackson for some time, returned home.

Ben Williams and Miss Bertie Coons were married last Tuesday at the home of the bride.

Miss Stella Carpenter, of Indianapolis, Ind., but formerly of this place, was married to a Mr. Zaring last week.

John W. Brown, who has been visiting here, left for his home at Muskogee, Okla. His visit was enjoyed to a great extent.

Miss Maggie Brown, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and her sister-in-law and cousin were guests of Miss Nina Brown last week.

Sept. 27.

BLUE BELL.

TRENT.

Miss Dorcas Barker is on the sick list at present.

George Culbertson, who has been working at Winchester, came home Friday.

Taylor Vancleave, of Lacy creek, attended church at this place last Sunday.

Miss Flo Blankenship, who is confined to her bed with fever, is improving nicely.

Rev. J. D. Hunter, of Cannel City, was a guest of Tom Hall and family Saturday night, and held services at Laurel church Sunday.

Misses Pearl and Della, daughters of Barney Blankenship, of near Mt. Sterling, are visiting their uncle, J. H. Barker, and family, this week.

A bean hulling came off at the home of Mrs. Risner Friday night. The crowd was composed of youthful beautiful from this place and all had a very enjoyable time.

PANSY-BUD.

A Hurry Up Call.

Quick! Mr. Druggist—Quick!—A box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve—Here's a quarter—For the love of Moses, hurry! Baby's burned himself, terribly—Johnnie cut his foot with the axe—Mamie's scalded—Pa can't walk from piles—Billie has boils—and my corns ache. She got it and soon cured all the family. It's the greatest healer on earth. Sold by all dealers.

STILLWATER.

Revs. Jeff Brewer, Sam Rose and Will Spencer preached to a good sized crowd at Sulphur Spring church Sunday.

J. D. Hunter, of Cannel City, has arranged to reorganize the Jr. O. U. A. M. council at Trent tomorrow evening.

Rev. Sam Rose recently traded his farm in the Calaboose to Jas. Brewer, of Trent, for the consideration of one horse and some cattle stock.

Mrs. R. J. Rose recently received news from Mrs. Anabel Combs, of Richmond, that Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Combs had returned from an enjoyable visit with relatives in Arkansas and Texas.

Rev. Abner Trent informed your correspondent that preaching services were held at Laurel church house Saturday night and that while services were being held Cleveland Ohair and Jesse Hager came into the church house and began talking out aloud so as to attract considerable attention, and in the meantime, while preaching was going on, walked out of the house, stepped to the corner of the building and fired three shots with a revolver, which caused considerable excitement and fear to prevail for a time, especially among the women and children. After church had adjourned some one came back to the church house and threw large stones against the door, breaking the panels of same, and the stones were lying in the room next morning. The good citizens of this commonwealth should rise up against such lawlessness and lend a helping hand in putting a stop to such outrageous deeds as this one and put such violators where they so justly belong and rid the community of a great burden.

The Road To Success

has many obstructions, but none so desperate as poor health. Success today demands health, but Electric Bitters is the greatest health builder the world has ever known. It compels perfect action of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, purifies and enriches the blood, and tones and invigorates the whole system. Vigorous body and keen brain follow their use. You can't afford to slight Electric Bitters if weak, run-down or sickly. Only 50c. Guaranteed by all dealers.

LANDSAW.

E. T. Kash sold to Dick Lawson, of Lee City, one milk cow for $30.

W. W. Swango visited the family of E. T. Kash first of the week.

Born, to the wife of Francis Madden, the 20th, a girl, Mrs. Lizzie Miller attending.

Charley Hatton, of this place, left for Lexington today. He expects to go to Elmendorf farm.

Miss Lena Sweeney, of Breathitt county, has been visiting at J. J. Landrum's for the past ten days.

Miss Caroline Taylor is still very poorly with typhoid fever, but is thought to be improving at this writing.

Wm. Hurst, of Malaga, has been hauling coal from the J. T. Day mines on Lacy creek for the past few days.

K. M. Halsey and James Tester went to Campton last Saturday to be with their cousins, Lillie and Cinda Halsey.

E. T. Kash made a trip to Helechawa last Thursday, returning via Hazel Green, and took dinner with Mr. Rittenhouse.

Robert Halsey went to Lexington last week and had his eyes operated on, and he says his eyes are now doing well.

Joe Halsey took the contract of furnishing coal for the Buchanan, Murphy and Landsaw schools, and is this week hauling it in.

Misses Lillie and Cinda Halsey, of Montgomery county, have been visiting relatives and friends in this section for the past few days.

Mrs. J. M. Tester has been sick for a few days, causing her husband, who is attending court at Campton, to come home each night.

S. H. Kash, of Hazel Green, is having a lot of rye sowed on his farm here, and he has been over looking after the work. Sam is a hustler.

Prof. K. M. Halsey spent a very pleasant evening at J. J. Landrum's one day last week. Mort would be an all round good fellow if he would only subscribe for THE HERALD.

ANON.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh

That Contain Mercury as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, O., by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggists. Price, 75c a bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CILLMORE.

Morton Elkins attended church at this place Sunday.

Stella and Betty Shackelford attended church at this place last Sunday.

J. C. Lindon returned Saturday from Campton, where he had been attending to business.

Mrs. Millie Fenska started for Muncie, Ind., Thursday, where she will make her future home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Haddix have just returned from Breathitt county, where they had been visiting.

Miss Alice Ely, who is teaching school at Oakdale, visited home folks from Saturday until Monday.

Miss Nettie Nickell, of Lexie visited Scott Nickell and wife last Sunday. She seemed to enjoy herself fine.

Floyd Ely, who has just returned from the army, went to Rousseau, Breathitt county, to attend a big meeting.

Mrs. Sarah Dunn and daughter, Clearay, were guests of Malissa Brooks, her mother, near Daysboro, Saturday and Sunday.

Sept. 27.

DAISY.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is today the best known medicine in use for the relief and cure of bowel complaint. It cures griping, diarrhoea, dysentery, and should be taken at the first unnatural looseness of the bowels. It is equally valuable for children and adults. It always cures. Sold by all dealers.

CANNEL CITY.

Bro. Onley, a local minister, filled the pulpit Sunday evening.

McClellan Campbell, of Richmond, was here Saturday on business.

Kyser Day and wife, of Caney, were guests of Everett Bach and wife Sunday.

Several town people went to the funeral service of Marion Carter, at Grassy Lick, Sunday.

J. S. O'Rourke has returned from New Mexico, where he had been visiting his son, Dwight.

Dudley Howard, who had the misfortune of a broken leg about a month ago, is not expected to live.

Whittaker, Jones & Jones seem to be dealing extensively in railroad ties, judging from the amount they have on the yard.

A Miss Nall, an expert milliner of St. Louis, Mo., arrived last week to superintend the millinery department of the Cannel City Fair.

Miss Fairie Templin, of Paris, was with us two days last week. She will return October 1 to take charge of the music department of the public school.

Will Walters, the postmaster, was stricken last week with stomach trouble. He is now in the Good Samaritan Hospital, at Lexington, and the latest news from there gives hope for recovery.

The teachers' association for Educational Division No. 3 will be held at this place Saturday, October 2. Special music has been provided for the occasion. All teachers will be entertained to dinner. The public is especially invited to be present.

At a meeting of the board of education of the Cannel City Graded School a department of music was established, and Miss Fairie Templin, a graduate of the Paris school of music, was selected to take charge of it. We predict a success for this department, as Miss Templin is a lady of experience and one who comes to us highly recommended.

ETHEL.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for 25 cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by all dealers.

The death of Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, has probably removed the only obstacle in the way of President Taft's re-election four years hence. Not that we rejoice in his demise for the passing of a great and good man, such as he was, regardless of politics, is greatly to be deplored. Governor Johnson represented that type of man whose nobility was American citizenship and whose knowledge of right and wrong carried with it the courage of his convictions. Born and reared in obscurity and poverty he arose through the sheer force of his tremendous personality to the greatest office in the gift of his native state and gained by merit alone the love and confidence of all its people. His death is universally regretted.—Mt. Sterling Gazette, Rep.

Your complexion as well as your temper is rendered miserable by a disordered liver. By taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets you can improve both. Sold by all dealers.

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbors' faults. Forget all the slander you ever heard. Forget the fault finding, and only remember the good points which make you fond of them. Forget all personal quarrels or histories you may have heard by accident, and which, if repeated, would seem a thousand times worse than they really are. Blot out as far as possible all the disagreeableness of life; they will come, but will only grow larger when you remember them. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday, start out with a clean sheet today, and write upon it for sweet memory's sake only those things which are lovely and lovable.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Ballentine, Miss.

Spencer Cooper, Hazel Green, Ky.

Dear Sir: You will please allow space in your most valuable paper for a few items from Ballentine, Miss. First I wish to say that I have been a subscriber to your paper since 1885, which I feel proud of. You will find enclosed $2, for which you will please send the dear old HERALD to my daughter, Leo Tutt, for one year, to 387 South Mill street, Lexington, Ky., and give me a renewal for one year from May 10, 1909. If it was not for THE HERALD weeks would seem like years to me.

I wish to say that I am glad to hear from so many parts of Wolfe county, as that is my home, and I feel sure that the correspondent staff reaches some one all over the United States.

Dear Cooper, you will find enclosed some poetry composed by my daughter, Leo, for which please allow space when you can without crowding out anything. She has written two, "Dreamy Valley" and "In the Mountains of Kentucky," which I think are nice. Hope you will find space for them.

I send you some rattle-snake rattles. I killed the snake myself, which was five feet long. I could tell you some snake stories, but they would sound fishy, so I will leave them off.

With best wishes for you and your better 1, remain your old Kentucky friend, T. K. TUTT.

Mrs. C. M. Swango, formerly of Hazel Green, Ky., has been suffering for some time with chills and fever.

Mack McNabb, of McCormick, Ky., returned to his home from this place last Friday. Also E. G. Nickell, of Toliver, Ky., left for his home. He said there was no place like home.

It is very dry here at present. Cotton is just half a crop.

The Carrier Lumber & Manufacturing Co. has just closed a deal for six sections of land with a New York firm. Price $68,000.

The Carrier Lumber & Manufacturing Co. has completed the railroad to Boho Lake. Quite a number of cottages are being put up.

In the Mountains of Kentucky.

In the mountains of Kentucky,
Where grow the flowers wild,
Where the sun smiles on all mankind
And the winds blow soft and mild,
There stands a dear old homestead,
Sheltered by a tall old pine,
And all day long the birdies sing sweetly,
As they flit from tree to vine.

When a child I loved to linger
In the little shady nook,
Where green willow fringed the bank
Of the clear rippling brook.
There I loved to sit and listen
In the evening's golden glow,
As the stream o'er stones and pebbles
Murmured softly, sweet and low.

Roses may bestrew along my pathway
And not a thorn my bliss to blight;
But without the memory of my home,
None of this would seem quite right.
When my life's work is ended
And my heart no sorrow knows,
In the mountains of Kentucky
Let me rest in sweet repose.
—L. T.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by all dealers.

Longest English Word.

The Englishman's jawbreaker is a Welsh word over which Justice Lawrence once, at the Angleysey Assizes, asked an explanation from Byrn Roberts, M. P. "What is the meaning of the letters 'p g' after the name Llanfair?" The answer was, it is an abbreviation of the village of Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllanysillo-goch. How is this pronounced? It will take some beating. This word of 54 letters, if repeated often enough, is said to be an excellent cure for toothache.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. Sold by all dealers.

Wolfe County Farmers' Institute.

Lucien Beckner, of Winchester, was in Hazel Green last week making arrangements for holding the Wolfe county farmers' institute in our little city Wednesday and Thursday, October 20, 21. Hon. Charles Banford, of Irvington, formerly speaker of the House of Representatives of Kentucky, and who is one of the best and most progressive farmers on both practical and scientific lines, will preside and discuss a number of subjects of great importance, among which are the improvements of public schools and the good roads questions. W. H. Claytor, one of the foremost fruit growers in the state, will lecture on the outlook of orcharding and other branches of fruit raising, as well as showing how with proper cultivation our farmers can make more and better crops of cereals. Local speakers will also be present to give their views, and all in all this will be a good opportunity for all farmers of this section to learn a great deal to benefit them. Let all the people come to these meetings as there will be much profitable instruction given, even to the women who will hear lectures on domestic science and other household affairs. At this institute one or more delegates will be elected to attend the State farmers' institute to be held in Frankfort some time in January or February, 1910.

J. C. Hurst Shot By His Brother.

A special dispatch from Jackson, dated September 26, to the Lexington Herald, says: "Julius Caesar Hurst, Republican candidate for county judge of Breathitt, was shot and probably fatally wounded by his brother, Hannibal Hurst, at his home, at Wilhurst, this evening. Hannibal says he fired to save his own life as his brother was picking up a shotgun when he shot him; but refuses to say what the difficulty was over. A handcar was rushed to Jackson and Dr. A. M. Arnold, uncle of the Hursts, was rushed to the side of the wounded man. A telegram from Wilhurst at 10 o'clock stated that Judge Hurst was in such a condition as to make his removal to a Lexington hospital on an early morning train tomorrow imperative. The bullet entered the judge's body just over the left hip bone. Dr. Arnold did not probe for it. Hannibal was not arrested."

LATER.

Jackson, Sept. 27.—Hannibal Hurst reached this city at 6:30 o'clock this morning, having come on the special train on the Ohio & Kentucky which brought Julius Caesar Hurst to the O. & K. Junction, en route to Lexington for surgical treatment, via the Lexington & Eastern railway. Both Hannibal Hurst and the wounded man stated that the shot was purely an accidental one, resulting from the unexpected discharge of a revolver which Hannibal Hurst had started to oil, not knowing it was loaded. The Hurst brothers are on good terms, living together in the same house. The many friends and supporters of Julius Caesar Hurst are much concerned over the accident as he was in the midst of an active canvass for county judge of Breathitt. The following statement made by Hannibal Hurst was tacked on the courthouse and on the front of all the business houses in Jackson this morning:

"Statement of Hannibal Hurst in regard to the accidental shooting of his brother, J. C. Hurst, this 27th day of Sept., 1909:

"My brother, J. C. Hurst, and I had just returned from Jackson on Sunday evening. He was working at a stove preparing to build a fire in the room and I was standing in the door cleaning a 32 pistol, when it accidentally went off and hit him. We were both sober at the time, and there was no trouble existing between us of any kind.

"I make this statement because of the fact that my brother is a candidate for county judge and I have been informed that some of his political enemies are causing a report to be circulated that we were engaged in a difficulty when he was shot, which report is absolutely untrue and unfounded.

"HANNIBAL HURST."

AT THE GOOD SAMARITAN.

Julius Caesar Hurst, the Republican candidate for county judge of Breathitt county, who was accidentally shot by his brother, Hannibal Hurst, is improving rapidly at the Good Samaritan Hospital, where he was brought at 9:30 Monday morning.

William L. Hurst, father of the wounded man, heard of the accident at noon Monday and immediately came to this city to be at the victim's bedside. Mr. Hurst, Sr., said the shooting was entirely accidental, a pistol which Hannibal, aged 25 years, was oiling and cleaning, exploding in his hands and the bullet striking Julius Caesar, who was at the time engaged in putting up a wire on a stove-pipe. Hurst was hopeful of his son's speedy recovery. The wounded man was accompanied to this city by his uncle, Dr. A. M. Arnold, who is attending his nephew at the hospital. The bullet was located, but not removed.—Lexington Herald.

Mains In Bad Condition.

That the water mains of Covington are in a terrible condition, and that the city would be practically a prey to the elements should a large fire break out was demonstrated when an attempt was made to clean the four-inch main on Washington street, between Sixth and Pike streets. All during the afternoon a large crew of men worked to get rods through the pipe. Toward evening these rods were connected and a "go-devil" at the end of a hawser inserted into the pipe.

The men managed to pull the "go-devil," which consisted of seven segments, only partly through the pipe, when the iron links connecting the segments broke between the third and fourth segments. Four of these were left in the pipe, completely closing the main, and it will be necessary to tear up the street at a point where these segments are in order to remove them. The three sections that were got out plainly showed that there was considerable corroded lead in the pipes, as the knives were badly nicked.

In the small section of pipe that the "go-devil" was got through were several bushels of waste, which, when brought to the surface, made a huge pile in the street. The water was filthy and resembled tar. When it was put to a bright light a person could hardly see through it. The matter will no doubt be brought before the State Board of Health, as it was plainly seen that if the people of Covington are using this water there must necessarily be considerable disease brought on by impurity.

Humorous Information.

The following bit of useful and humorous information was given to a young student on his way to college by his aged father. Students everywhere can read what the fond father said and profit thereby:

"Son, I want you to realize in the first place that for the hard-earned money which I am spending for your education, I want good hard study in return. I do not expect you to take first place in your class, nor to teach the professors anything, but I do want you to bring home with you some prize, even if snatched in passing from the bargain counter. First honors do not mean a good shortstop, nor a good quarter-back, a fine dancer, an expert card player, or spendthrift. By honors I mean that I want you to take a high standing in your class work, close application to your studies, and take a good standing in deportment. Do not try to be too smart, brain fever may result, do not discover the North Pole, two men are already in trouble over it, do not startle science by the invention of wingless flying machines. Do not revise Euclid, let Webster spell English his own way; let prohibition, Christian Science, cigarettes and joy rides alone. The young idea learns to shoot there—but not craps. Study."

They have anything you want in the line of coats and skirts for ladies, misses and children, all selections made from the best houses who give their customers every advantage in styles and designs. Give them a call. Their line is complete. Do not forget opening dates, Friday and Saturday, October 8 and 9.

Carl May, living near town, accidentally shot himself Sunday morning, inflicting a wound in the left side. Drs. Marion and Taylor Center were called to see him, and the latter tells us the following particulars: Mr. May had a $2 special pistol in a holster and in stooping to pick up something dropped the weapon which was discharged, the ball entering his side just about two inches below and one inch to left of nipple. The ball was cut out about five inches from where it entered. He has been spitting blood, but his physician thinks this comes from a split rib and not from lungs. He is resting easy and bids fair to speedily recover unless complications arise.

Capt. W. L. Hurst, of Campton, and Col. Jack Rittenhouse, of our town, are both pretty shrewd financiers and evidently know a good thing when they see it, as is evidenced by the fact that each of them recently added $1,000 to their stock in the Hazel Green Bank. Only a few days ago the bank received nearly $1,700 deposits in one day, which shows that it is continually growing in the confidence of the people.

Charley Cecil, who has been confined to his home with fever and rheumatism for some time, is still very ill, but his physician, Dr. C. Hood Williams, says he is slowly recovering. Dr. Curt Givendon, of Grassy, was called Tuesday in consultation with Dr. C. Hood Williams, his family physician.

Attorney General Breathitt handed down an important opinion to Secretary of State Bruen, holding that any officer of the state chosen by the vote of the people in a district larger than a county, except members of the General Assembly, must certify his nomination to the Secretary of State.

Ellis Johnson had a fine milk cow stray away a few days ago and was talking about advertising for her in THE HERALD, but on Tuesday he found her with a calf by her side, and he thinks this is good evidence as to the efficacy of advertising when the thought of it brings the desired result.

Prof. Derthick: His New School.

The many friends of Prof. Derthick in this section are possibly interested as to how he is progressing with his new school in Livingston, Tenn., and we copy the following editorials from the Enterprise, published in that city:

"A good sized crowd of patrons of the Academy met in the chapel last Friday evening to formally meet the faculty and to discuss plans for the management of the school. Prof. Derthick announced the principal rules and regulations which he and his corps of teachers had outlined. He then called on any one in the audience to express his or her views, and several responded. The management of the school is in many respects different from what our people are accustomed to, but all agree that the school should start right. There will be a meeting of the patrons and teachers once a month, and every parent who has children in school or who is interested in the success of the school, is urged to attend."

"There will, perhaps, be some criticism of the action of the faculty at the academy in forbidding the use of snuff and tobacco and cigarettes by the pupils, but there should not be. Any one who has made a study of the question must admit that the child can not do its best work with its nervous system polluted with a poison as deadly as tobacco. No school serves its real purpose that neglects the physical and moral development of the child. It may be a hard task for the boy or girl to leave off cigarettes or snuff, but it is better to sacrifice a little pleasure now that they may gain a healthy body, mind and soul. Parents, let us help our children to begin now to be men and women in the truest sense of the word."

"The best thing connected with the management of the school at the academy is the use of individual drinking cups, each child being required to have his own cup and use no other. Millions of disease germs are transmitted by the use of public dippers or cups."

Robt. J. Cecil, of the firm of Cecil Bros., and his wife left Monday for Cincinnati, where they will each purchase goods. The first for his firm and the latter for Miss Falay Long's millinery.

Boone Stamper, charged with operating a moonshine still, was arraigned for trial in the U. S. Court at Jackson last week, but his case was continued until next March term.

KENTUCKY KERNELS

Carefully Collated and Concisely Chronicled.

W. P. Smith, of Jessamine county sold a pair of premium leghorn chickens for $45.

According to the State geological survey Fayette county is the greatest barytes center in Kentucky.

The grand jury of Mason county has instructed the Fiscal court to purchase ground and erect a new court house.

Dock Padgett stabbed a man named Lucas five times, near South Fork, in Lincoln county. Lucas is in a dangerous condition and Padgett is in jail.

Green Skidmore and William Padgett quarreled at an old soldiers' reunion, in Lincoln county, and Padgett knocked Skidmore in the head with a club. He was placed under arrest.

James King, the Beattyville negro who shot and killed Charles Scribner, another negro, a short time since, is in Lexington jail for safekeeping. He admits the deed, but claims self-defense.

Workmen at the Wertz mines, near Ashland, found a suit-case containing a lot of woman's clothing and a woman's hat and slippers in a lonely place. No one could identify the articles and a mystery surrounds the find.

Under the provisions of an ordinance passed by the city council no license can be granted to sell liquor outside of four squares in the central part of Frankfort. This action was taken because of the recent militia disturbances in The Crow.

Hon. S. W. Hager has closed a deal with W. Q. Adams, of Owensboro, whereby he becomes sole owner of the Owensboro Inquirer. Mr. Hager has taken charge of the paper, and it will be published in the interest of the Democratic party.

The tobacco barn belonging to Henry Day, near Maysville, was destroyed by fire last week. The barn was a large one, well filled with this year's crop of tobacco and agricultural implements. Loss about $4,000. Thought to be the work of incendiaries.

William Orcutt, aged 31, had his collar bone broken and was otherwise seriously injured by the caving in of a trench which he was digging at Dayton. He was buried to his shoulders by the dirt and rocks, and was dug out only after a great deal of difficulty.

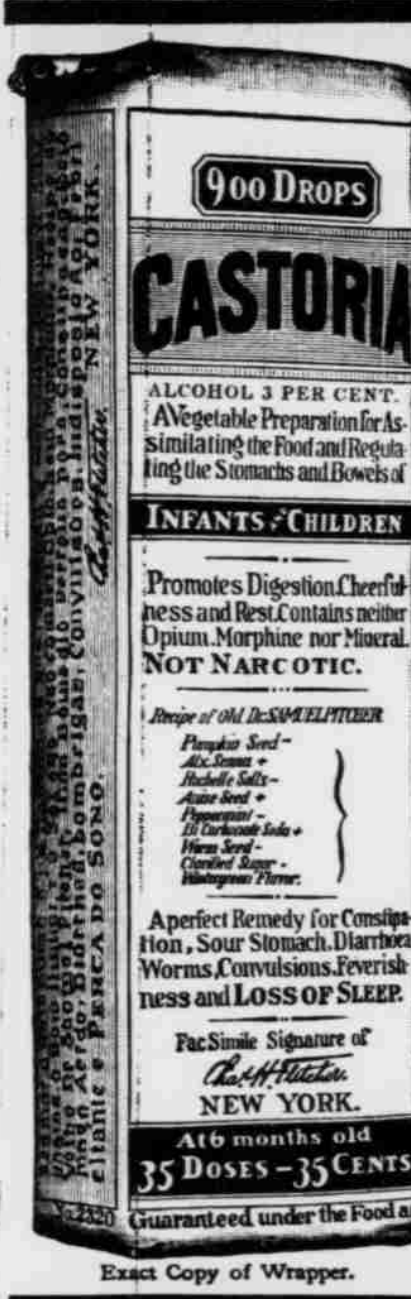

Jim Stewart, the negro arrested about a month ago for an assault upon a white woman, Mrs. Reinberger, and sent to Louisville to escape a mob, was brought to Bowling Green, arraigned, pleaded guilty and was on his way to the Eddyville penitentiary in three hours. He was given a twelve-year sentence.

Although Lloyd Cornett had been informed by letter that his first wife was dead when he married the second time, the Appellate Court in an opinion by Chief Justice Nunn, affirmed the judgment of the Harlan Circuit court making Cornett a bigamist and sentencing him to the penitentiary for three years.

Without parents, relatives or one friend Sanford Wilson, a youth, drifted into Covington. Attorney Walker C. Hall met up with Wilson and learned of his condition, took a fancy to him on account of his manly ways and brightness and decided to give him a home. Mr. Hall appeared before County Judge H. P. Stephens and was made the guardian of Wilson. The latter came from Hinton W. Va., where his mother died about six months ago and the father about three months ago. It is the intention of Mr. Hall to place young Wilson in his law office.

Last year an explosion of dynamite in the Rose Run Iron Company, of Bath county, destroyed the sight and hearing of Robert Yarbrough, an employee of the company. He brought suit and recovered $5,500 damages. He has now brought another suit against the same company for three dollars per week so long as he is unable to work, which, of course, means the rest of his life. Yarbrough asks this judgment as a beneficiary of the indigent fund, this fund being a certain sum of money collected monthly from each employe and set aside for the benefit of sick or injured employes. They are entitled to $3 a week as long as they are unable to work.

Reports from Breathitt county indicate that the enemies of Ed Callahan are keeping that gentleman in a state of armed siege. Fearing to appear in the open since he was shot down in the door of his store about six months ago, Callahan has had built a long board walk from his dwelling house to his store, walled on each side with heavy timbers, so that he may go from his home to his business without being seen or shot. The walled-up walk terminates at the rear of the store building where there is a small, well-enclosed office. Here the besieged man stays during business hours, never venturing even into the main room of his store. His clerks, chief of whom is his son, Wilson, come into the office to make reports and consult him about the business. Armed men prevent other intrusion.

Ten Doctors Said He Would Die

"In 1903 we wrote you regarding my husband, who was suffering from heart trouble. He was superannuated by the North Georgian Conference. Ten doctors at different times said he would die. You advised Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Restorative Nervine; we did as advised, and improvement was apparent from the very first. He recovered and the Conference in 1904 gave him a charge. He never felt better, although he has very heavy work and does a great deal of camp meeting work. I am so glad we took your advice and gave him the medicine, and feel that I ought to let you know of the wonderful good results from its use."

AMERICA'S GREATEST WEEKLY.
THE TOLEDO BLADE,
TOLEDO, OHIO.

The Best Known Newspaper in the United States.

CIRCULATION, - - - 200,000

Popular in Every State.

The seventy-fourth year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period of its remarkable career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. Its field is not circumscribed by State boundaries, but involves the length and breadth of the United States, giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in the country.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice; the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the greatest number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrapbook of information; the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of exchanging ideas and information on farm topics. No department is neglected, but every feature is taken care of with the idea of making The Blade worth many times the price of subscription—one dollar a year. Sample copies mailed free. Address,

Good Roads Mean Change In Mountains.

[Anna F. Maclean in the Lexington Herald.]
The mountain people of Kentucky are not at all patient under the process of being painted in the hue called "local color." They protest that they are tired of being presented as types, and moreover as types of undesirable qualities.

"It seems strange to me," dryly commented an observant mountain woman, "that reporters and story writers can fool people so easily. The Lord made us all. I should think anybody would know He had made us up here human as well as them."

It is the ancient war between the people in search of material for "a good story" and the people who furnish the material.

"Why don't they get photographs of the improvements in our town instead of hunting up the worst places?" is the indignant question.

At the moment of one such question a visitor to the little mountain town, turning her back on the new bank and modern schoolhouse was enthusiastically pointing her camera at a shabby family group in an oxcart making their slow way from some remote cabin up a hollow.

There are in the mountains almost as many grades of enlightenment and social position as there are in the cities. Pigs may be pigs and a spade a spade, but mountaineers aren't by any means always the mountaineers of the novelist and the missionary. But one and all, landed proprietor and shack renter, college graduate and illiterate, they resent figuring in art and literature as feudists, moonshiners and ignoramuses.

You try to work on their sympathy for the poor reporter who can only hold his job by ferreting out the dramatic and the picturesque elements of mountain life. It isn't the reporter's fault that a moonshiner still is more picturesque than a licensed Blue Grass distillery, or a feudist with five men on his list more dramatic than the cashier of the bank.

It is the reader, not the novelist, whose taste compels the latter to put bad grammar in the heroine's mouth and sends the heir to the moss-grown well for water for his ablutions in the tin basin on the bench outside the door. A modern bathroom with white tiles and open plumbing would cause an appalling drop in the sale of the book. The mountaineer doesn't deny the feudist, the moonshiner and the unwashed. He only protests against the false impressions going forth that these people are representative.

The plea that newspaper men, novelists and illustrators have to make their livings leaves him unmoved. He is quite unwilling to sacrifice himself on the altar of either art or altruism. "It's all lies anyhow," grumbled a substantial farmer upon finishing a recent novel dealing with his section. "I know every man that lives on Squabble Creek and there ain't no such a person as 'Buck Considine.'"

And everywhere these unwilling victims of the pen and camera find comfort in the thought that their day as material for fiction is rapidly passing. The railroad and the telephone have immensely advanced the work slowly and painfully begun by church and school. Everywhere it is recognized that isolation, the long appalling solution of the mountain homes, has been the chief cause of ignorance, law-breaking and ill feeling.

All eyes look forward to the supplying of the mountains' most immediate need—increased transportation facilities. More railroads of course, but first and most, good wagon roads. The coal, the timber, the oil and gas, the re-opening of the salt wells, chief source of Clay county's once great prosperity, the marketing of produce of all kinds, wait upon good roads. And just as much the mountain people realize good roads as necessary to education, living conditions and happiness in general.

Everywhere there is a determination to have better roads. The only fear has been that the portion of the population which invariably tries to obstruct progress will prove too strong when the matter comes to a vote. That portion is of course the lower stratum of ignorance and poverty, not the taxpayers on whom would fall the burden. They, the taxpayers, advocate taxation for good roads almost to a man, but they have had their doubts about the mass of non-taxpayers, which habitually opposes new bridges, jails or school houses.

On this point a giant Clay county character unlettered, but much esteemed for his shrewd wisdom, expressed a hopeful opinion.

"You needn't be afeard the fellows that has to work the roads is a goin' to vote agin the tax. They're too mad over having to work the roads an not git no pay. They'll vote for anything that'll git the roads in shape whar they won't have to work 'em for nothin.' You see them that's got property don't have to work the roads. They can pay somebody to take their places. But them that can't do that gits mad and they're goin' to vote for the new kind of roads."

He proceeded to relate that a certain mail carrier (not in his county, he proudly explained) had lately had his life threatened if he complained of the condition of his route again. The road being so bad that to travel on wheels was dangerous to life, the mail-carrier protested, but a committee of "no-account and shiftless fellows" waited upon him to say that the men along that road had decided never to work it again and to warn him that if he made complaint to the authorities he would be a dead man, "and he would, too," commented the narrator with a gloomy satisfaction.

All through Eastern Kentucky there is a deep stirring of vitality. The people are awake and aware. They are thinking real thoughts and frankly facing real conditions. And the one thought uppermost and immediate is the determination to have as good roads as natural condition permit and all the advancement and prosperity that good roads will mean.

One of His Father's Ways.

Mr. Jefferson had not been altogether an exemplary husband and father, but he possessed certain engaging qualities which secured him many friends and made his death the cause of sincere mourning to his widow. "Mis' Jefferson, she's done broke up over Eb'nezer's bein' took off fr'm de pneumony," said one of the neighbors.

"She sutt'nly is," said another—"mournin' around de house all de time, she goes. Why, day befo' yist'day I was thar helpin' her, an' she only stop cryin' once, an' dat was to spunk little Eben for takin' n'lasses out'n de jug right into his mouf when her back was turned."

"When she'd spanked him good an' set him down she says to me, 'He makes me tink ob his pa so much I c'ant bear it!' an' bus' right out cryin' ag'in."—Youth's Companion.

Summer in Greenland.

Among the interesting observations made by the Danish northeast Greenland expedition is one on the sudden coming of summer in that land of ice and fiords. The change is described as sudden. Gradually the temperature of the snow had risen to the freezing point, and then in one day it all melted. "The rivers were rushing along, flowers were budding forth, and in the air the butterflies were fluttering." The birds came nearly all on the same day, and most of them even at the same hour. One day there were only the ordinary ptarmigan and the raven; the next there were the sanderling, the ring plover, the goose, the eider duck and many others.

Delicately Put.

"The first day out was perfectly lovely," said the young lady just back from abroad. "The water was as smooth as glass, and it was simply gorgeous. But the second day was rough and—er—decidedly gorgeous."—Everybody's.

Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

EASINESS OF DEATH.

The Last Moments Rarely Witness Real Physical Suffering.

It is as natural to die as it is to live—and as easy. Practically all the distress witnessed as taking place in the act of dying is the automatic tissue struggle against dissolution and is not recognized by the individual who seems to be acutely suffering. Occasionally in the delirium of fever, in uraemia and other intoxications, in certain of the brain degenerations witnessed in old age, there is an exhilaration or happy, peaceful calm that pervades the final scene.

I remember one dear lady, a Swedenborgian, who believed that after death one would follow the occupation that had been most congenial in the present life. This lady was especially fond of babies, fondling them and giving them personal care. When she came to die of a lingering, most painful illness, at the final moment a beatific smile pervaded her countenance, she beamed in gentle ecstasy and murmured: "Now I see the heavenly light. I see a baby."

Yet nature is not often so lavish with her kindness. Usually everything is dulled, blunted, so that at the border line between life and death it is often difficult, even impossible for a certain time, to say whether the soul has fled or not. It was long debated in medical circles whether or not there was a reliable test for death. Indeed, the tissues always survive the departure of the vital spark for a longer or shorter time. A muscle will contract to the electric current for a considerable time after the eye is dull, the intellect a closed book, the soul on its way. The hair grows palpably after death.

Of course there are some exceptions, and once in awhile—so I read and so I am told—some one dies really in conscious terror and protest, but I have not seen such a taking off, and I can state candidly that of the many scores of deaths that I have witnessed, in hospital and out, among the very poor and very wealthy, the young and the old, the pious and the blasphemous, some of which have been very painful to behold, in nearly all of them the main actor at the last moment was not conscious of what was going on. The occasional examples of conscious cheerfulness are the exception and still more so instances of terminal torture.—E. L. Keyes, M. D., in Harper's Magazine.

Five Stages of the Sword.

It may be said that the evolution of the sword has passed through five distinct stages. First came the epoch of pure carnage, when men seemed to hew and hack each other for the mere pleasure it gave them; next the era of legend, when stupendous and impossible feats of arms were said to have been accomplished. Then followed the feudal time, a curious mixture of bloodshed and religion, when the piety of the crusaders was proved by their ability to slash the equally bloodthirsty Saracens. Succeeding this period sprang the noble season of skillful fence as the sword, no longer a weapon of pure attack, became a mixed arm of offense and defense combined. Finally we see its fall, being today a mere military accoutrement, after attaining a glory that no one dreamed of during the days of its first rude and barbarous use.—Exchange.

Convincing.

The landed proprietor purchased a carriage horse to match one he already possessed. A day or two later he asked his groom what he thought of the new arrival.

"Weel, sir," said Sandy, "he's certainly a gran' lookin' horse, but he's a wee bit touchy i' the temper."

"What makes you say that, Sandy?"

"Weel, he disna seem to tak' kindly to onybody, sir. In fact, he disna like me to gang intae his box to feed him even."

"Oh," lightly responded the horse's owner, "he hasn't settled down yet, that's all. His surroundings are strange to him. I don't think there's anything wrong with his temper."

"I didna either at first, sir," remarked Sandy, "but he kicked me clean out o' the box twice, an' when ye come to think about it that's sort o' convincin'!"

"Poor John."

A Philadelphian who was formerly a resident of a town in the north of Pennsylvania recently revisited his old home.

"What became of the Hoover family?" he asked an old friend.

"Oh," answered the latter, "Tom Hoover did very well—got to be an actor out west. Bill, the other brother, is something of an artist in New York, and Mary, the sister, is doing literary work. But John never amounted to much. It took all he could lay his hands on to support the others."—Lippincott's.
